Daily Prevention Practices

Ramey Wine Cellars has always hosted tastings by appointment. Because of this, we can maximize social distancing practices and provide a private space to ensure that you are never in contact with other tasting groups. In accordance with the California Department of Public Health, the key prevention practices Ramey executes daily are below.

- Physical Distancing to the maximum extent possible---Reservations are by appointment only, and each group will receive its own private tasting. On the day of your visit, the area where we host your tasting is restricted to just the host and your group. We are limiting the number of people who enter the facility to the greatest extent possible.
- Frequent cleaning and disinfection---Your host is held to a cleanliness standard that requires frequent handwashing and sanitation. We are regularly disinfecting surfaces and seats. You will have access to hand sanitizer and soap at all times. Glasses will be sanitized in a restaurant-grade dishwasher in hot water of 180 degrees Fahrenheit. Any paper and pencils will be used just by you.
- Use of face covering by employees---Staff has been trained on the proper face covering techniques. We ask that guests wear a face covering until they are seated.
- Contactless payment systems---All orders can be processed and fulfilled without physically touching your host.
- Employee wellness screenings---Your host will complete a self-assessment for symptoms and those statistics are tracked by Sonoma County Public Health Department.
